LB88 would eliminate an exception (i.e. construction of farmsteads within the three-mile extraterritorial zoning jurisdiction of the city) to the applicability of City of Lincoln building codes. The city anticipates that any related increase in codes inspection costs would be met with revenue generated by related building permit revenue.

COMMENTS: It is anticipated that there will be increased inspection costs and increased permit fee revenue for the City of Lincoln resulting from the permissive expansion of their zoning regulation jurisdiction. Such expenses and revenues are indeterminate at this time but could be somewhat significant depending on the decisions of the city zoning authorities.
